Simpkins Vocational Consulting LLC (“SVC”) announced that it has secured its first services contract as a subcontractor supporting a major federal contractor in the rehabilitation sector. The engagement will provide specialized forensic vocational evaluation and employment consulting services designed to support disabled veterans.

“This contract is an important milestone for our firm and affirms the growing demand for specialized, person-centered vocational expertise in complex cases,” said Katrina Simpkins, MS, CRC, CVE, founder and CEO of Simpkins Vocational Consulting LLC. “We are honored to support our teaming partner and their clients in delivering high-quality, evidence-based vocational services that help disabled veterans move forward after life-changing injuries.”

The contract reflects SVC’s commitment to supporting rehabilitation stakeholders with clear, objective vocational assessments and practical recommendations grounded in real-world labor market data. By partnering with established organizations in the injury and disability ecosystem, SVC aims to improve the quality and accessibility of vocational services for injured workers and individuals with disabilities.
